

Science Matters to Nebraska

Research Universities

Learn about the work being done at some of the major research universities in Nebraska:

University of Nebraska

Federally Funded Research in Nebraska

Federal funding for scientific research reaches every state in the nation. See the impact of funding to organizations in Nebraska from three of the major government research agencies:

National Institutes of Health:

In FY2016, organizations in Nebraska received 241 awards from NIH, across all of its institutes, totaling $107,024,633.

National Science Foundation:

In FY2016, organizations in Nebraska received 94 awards from NSF, across all of its programs, totaling $31,160,000.

Department of Energy Office of Science:

In 2015, educational organizations in Nebraska received research awards from the DOE office of Science worth $4,349,088.

Companies Created from Research in Nebraska

Ground Fluor Pharmaceuticals Inc., based on research from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, is developing new imaging agents for use in diagnosis and management of disease and to help other companies better manufacture imaging agents for positron emission tomography (PET) scans.

J.A. Woollman Co. was founded in 1987 as a spin-off from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The company produces spectroscopic ellipsometry systems used to measure thin film thickness and optical constants.

Trak Surgical is the result of 12 years of research and development coming out of the laboratory of Professor Hani Haider at the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

Learn about more companies created from federally funded research here.

